EOGH article submission guidelines

Thank you for your interest in writing an article for EOGH! Please follow these guidelines, and let us know if you have any questions.

- Write a maximum 800 words (flexible up to 1000 on a case-by-case basis), and a minimum 300 words for written articles.

- Include minimum 2 images; in text to show desired formatting, plus send as jpeg/png files. The editorial team can provide support finding suitable images if needed.

- Indicate which is to be used as the featured image. Please make sure images are appropriately credited (if not free to use).

- References will be formatted as links on WordPress; when writing use Vancouver with the in-text citation just after the word you would like the hyperlink attached to (see recent published articles for examples). When linking to an online academic journal make sure article is open access, or use PubMed. When linking to a book use Google Books or similar. You can also add the reference links as in-text comments.

- Specify whether you would like your name to be linked to your Twitter or LinkedIn, and add the link if so

- Write a short blurb (around 2-3 sentences) as a teaser/introduction to your article. This will only show in the main blog's page and in the social media posts we will share. We are happy to help with this as well.

- After you send us your first draft, the editorial team will review it and suggest edits. We will get back to you as soon as possible. After that, you will have a few days to review our suggestions and make changes accordingly, and we will be happy to discuss any of those. We will repeat this process once or twice more, until the article is ready to be published.

- The editing team are happy to help with any enquiries and can review early drafts if required. Please do keep us up to date on any delays or if you need to extend your deadline; the more notice we have, the easier it is to re-arrange the publication schedule.

Most importantly… have fun writing!
